

Bishop Cannon Briefly Replies In 15,000 Words

Washington, Aug. 5 (AP).—The answer of Bishop James Cannon, Jr., of the Methodist Episcopal Church, south, to the various charges which have been published against him recently was made available to newspapers today in a 15,000-word statement.

In it, he went at length into the charges of profiteering in flour during the war, the criticisms of his stock market transactions, the charge that he had used funds of the board of temperance and social service of his church to further the election of President Hoover through organization of the anti-Smith Democrats of Virginia and the contention that he improperly used his church office for political purposes.

Bishop Cannon restated his denial of wrong-doing in every instance, reiterated his opposition to former Governor Alfred E. Smith, Democratic candidate for President, Chairman John J. Raskob of the Democratic National Committee, and Senator Carter Glass of Virginia and declared:

"Either Raskobism must be discarded and repudiated, or dry southern Democrats are of necessity permanently out of the party."

Charging efforts at "political intimidation" against him, he asked: "Is not this a concerted desperate effort of Raskobism to destroy my influence with the people of Virginia in the approaching election? Will the people of Virginia approve or disapprove of these attacks upon my reputation and influence in these political assassinations?"

The answer is described as a "statement by Bishop James Cannon, Jr., concerning the various publications which have been made concerning him by 'wet' and Roman Catholic and other newspapers, throughout the country."

Of the food profiteering charge, the bishop says, "Of course, this had no bearing whatever upon the betrayal of the Democratic party on the prohibition question by Alfred E. Smith, but slander is one of the favorite weapons of unprincipled politicians."

He declares he tried "vainly to find someone who had publicly sponsored the charge," and then cites the statement of the trustees of the Blackstone (Va.) College for Girls saying they were "fully acquainted with the facts" concerning his purchase of flour in 1917 while president of the institution to safeguard its food budget for the approaching term.

Explaining he cannot be certain as to the exact amount "owing to the burning of my own files at Blackstone," he estimated that the profit on the transaction could not have exceeded $1,300 if all the flour purchased had been sold and contrasted this with the charge that he had "profiteered personally to the extent of $50,000."

The attempt at "political intimidation" on the basis of his stock market transactions, he declared, was begun during the 1928 campaign, but was discontinued for seven months, until his activities in the current Virginia campaign began. A few days after his statement of June 1 to the anti-Smith Democrats of Virginia, he said he learned "that the same tactics which had been tried privately in the campaign of 1928 would now be tried openly with the purpose of destroying my influence with my friends in Virginia and throughout the country, and that I might be not a helpful but a hurtful factor in the effort to overthrow Raskobism in Virginia and in the nation."

Forest Fires in Northern Idaho

Spokane, Wash., Aug. 5 (AP).—An army of nearly 1,000 men today was waging desperate battle to check the progress of forest fires raging in the timber-dry woods of northern Idaho. Lack of rain, heavy winds and inaccessibility of the fires made their task doubly difficult.

A frantic stand was being made against the blaze about eight miles from Sand Point, Idaho, by 250 fighters, in an effort to save the town's water supply.

At Lewiston all available men were being conscripted to combat dangerous fires on Baldy mountain and Glover creek. The flames at Baldy mountain had burned over 190 acres and were spreading swiftly. The Glover creek fire was burning in dry timber and in a particularly inaccessible district.

All those in Oregon were reported under control. Fires continued to burn in Washington and California, however.

Cooper Lake To Supply City With Its Water

New Six Mile Pipe Line Placed in Operation—Water to Reach City Tonight—All Supply of Water to Come From Lake, Keeping Reservoirs for Emergencies.

The new six mile pipe line from Cooper Lake to the filter house of the Kingston water department, which was recently completed and tested out, was placed in operation today and water from Cooper Lake will flow from all city faucets this evening. With the placing of the new pipe line system in operation all water supplied the city hereafter will be exclusively from Cooper Lake.

No water from the city reservoirs will be piped to the city but the reservoirs will be kept for emergency purposes, such as a break in the new six mile pipe line or drought. The building of the new six mile pipe line was started last September by the water board and the work was done under the direction of John H. Harrison, former superintendent of the water department. The line was built in order to supply the city with pure water. Formerly water from Cooper Lake flowed overground to Reservoir No. 2, and to wipe out all chance of contamination it was decided to build the line and pipe all water direct from the lake to the filter house. After passing through the filter house the water is piped directly to Kingston.

PLANE "EXPLODES" AT 4,000 FEET. LIGHTNING BLAMED

San Bernardino, Cal., Aug. 5 (AP).—An airplane piloted by Virgil Cline, San Jose, Cal., exploded 4,000 feet above the Mojave Desert near here yesterday, tearing the flier and his craft to bits. A bolt of lightning was believed to have struck the plane's gasoline tank. A thunderstorm, rare in that part of the country, was raging about the time of the crash.

The plane exploded with a great detonation as it soared on its way to Chicago from Los Angeles.

Oliver Phillips, mine superintendent of Rancho, Cal., reported that when a mine physician first arrived at the place where the flier's body was found fragments of the plane were still raining from the clouds. A card found in Cline's pocket was the only means of identification.

The plane was a specially built craft recently purchased by William Brock and was to have been used by the round the world flier in a long distance flight as yet unannounced. The plane was heard flying over the small mining town but could not be seen because of the clouds, Phillips said.

The vessels collided as one was coming into the harbor at full speed loaded with excursionists while the other was attempting to go out. The incoming steamer sank almost immediately. Persons from nearby boats made attempts at rescue but were unable to extricate the victims from the wreckage.

The screams of the helpless women and children could be heard for a considerable distance along the shore and thousands rushed from the beach to the pier to watch dozens of small boats making rescues. About 20 of those rescued suffered from immersion, shock, and minor injuries.

"Barnyard Golf" Honors Divided

Rain Halts Play With Williams of Kingston and Colville of Poughkeepsie Tied at 40 All.

The "barnyard golf" match held at Forsyth Park Saturday noon between the horseshoe pitching clubs of Kingston and Poughkeepsie ended before the schedule of matches were completed with the honors equally divided. The Kingston Horseshoe club is invited to Poughkeepsie next Saturday to enter another contest with the Poughkeepsie men. At the Poughkeepsie meet plans will be made to hold a tournament between teams representing Kingston, Poughkeepsie, Rhinebeck and Marlborough. Two men will represent each club and matches will be held in each of the places represented. The Kingston Horseshoe club will undoubtedly be represented by Frank DuFion and "Kee" Williams.

Frank DuFion, who has charge of the Horseshoe pitching event at the Farm Bureau Picnic to be held at Forsyth Park August 14, has received a few entries but feels that the entry blanks are not coming in as fast as they should. All entries must be in before August 10 and in order to prevent a last minute rush of entries he asks that the entries be sent in at once.

Peter Fannelli, 65, of Milton died Sunday evening after being brought to the hospital here suffering from a fractured skull and several fractured ribs which he received when struck by a car of Dennis Hynes, 28, of New York city. Hynes was released to appear this morning for a hearing before the justice at Milton when witnesses to the accident stated that the accident was unavoidable.

Fannelli had accompanied his two daughters to the street where they were about to board a bus near the road leading to Elverhoj theatre. As the two young women stepped into the bus a car driven by Hynes came along and witnesses who were examined by the authorities later stated Fannelli stepped from behind the bus in front of the car. Hynes attempted to avoid the accident by swerving to the right and applied his brakes, but before the car was stopped it struck the aged man. The two girls hearing the brakes left the bus and learned their father had been struck.

Two Parachute Jumps Postponed

The two parachute jumps that were to have been made at the local flying field by Eric Lindgren on Saturday and Sunday nights were postponed because of the bad flying weather. Saturday night the jump was not held because of the rain and last night it was impossible to make the jump because of the high wind which made it almost impossible to fly the plane.

Lindgren was disappointed because of the failure of weather to allow his jumping as he has not jumped in over a week, having been quite badly injured in a jump at the Sauzettes airport in his last jump. His injured ankle is improving very nicely however and he will undoubtedly make a jump as soon as the weather is permitted.

And day after tomorrow it will start back for Germany, on the first leg of a journey around the world. The airship brought 18 passengers and one unlisted stowaway who was kept incommunicado in a small compartment in the tail of the dirigible and turned over to immigration authorities soon after arrival.

The Graf Zeppelin, largest of airships, left Friedrichshafen at 9:20 P. M. T. Wednesday night and was pulled to the ground here at 8:48 last night after 95 hours and 19 minutes in the air. The westward crossing last year took 111 hours.

"There was every kind of weather," Dr. Hugo Eckner, commander of the ship, said on landing. "It was a very interesting flight, we had no snow and no hail, but there was a storm close to us at the start and there were strong winds for the last 14 hours in the air."

"We had a very enjoyable time," he told reporters. "At night we danced and sang and drank wine."

There were other amusements, too. Passengers told of a bridge tournament and recounted with laughter how they had "kidded" themselves in face of the rule against smoking by carrying porcelain cigarettes which they "lit" with electric flashlights.

The eighteen passengers, including two women, showed no signs of weariness from the trip. They said they had enjoyed perfect comfort. Soon after their arrival they left for New York in a special train.

Dame Fashion Smiles

By Grace Jewett Austin

Dame Fashion took a meditative walk first at the back of her right hand and then at the back of her left hand. She was not doing it dramatically like Lady Macbeth, but was registering much pleasure in the doing. The reason was that a pretty girl had put a dab of "perfume" on the right hand, and "perfume" to wear playing golf on the left hand. As Dame Fashion, in her own ordinary self, can play neither, of course, she had no bias, and could be an unprejudiced judge of what she liked. And she at once chose the "golf" fragrance; more decided, more "peppy," in short.

They were both perfumes that had been distilled in the mysterious and secret vats of France, and the pretty girl went on to give an excellent resume of a recent French visitor's remarks about women and perfume. It brought out that when a French woman is preparing for a social function she chooses her perfume before she decides which gown she will wear, and harmonizes her appearance to the effect of her perfume. The French people seem to think Americans have a lot to learn about perfumes, but they are studying. Any shop which has perfume upon its list chooses one of its most gracious and charming women to live up to the beauty of the perfume counter surroundings, and because women are sure to congregate there.

All this talk about the French reminds one of a statement made lately by one of the leading men designers of Paris, who declares, "American women take dress much more seriously than do Europeans, not exceeding the Parisienne." But if he means this for a compliment, he goes right ahead to dilute it by declaring that Americans have less initiative in dress. Well, whatever they have or do not have, they "get there all the same," as the college song about the mosquito used to say.

As for this "serious" business, Dame Fashion would hesitate quite awhile before subscribing to it. New clothes are one of the happiest businesses in the world—while, on the other hand, what is more comfort than an "old dud" that will almost run your day for you, because it is so used to your ways? A very wise woman, many years ago, told Dame Fashion, "Never let yourself be cheated out of any pleasure or opportunity because you may think you have not the precise clothes for it." When you boil it down, nothing but presentation at the English court has really a prescribed dress—and even there, if you get your three feathers in your hair and a train, you will pass.

Dame Fashion felt like saying a good "amen" to a pretty bride-elect who said that her going-away gown was to be a white sports dress. For, if there is one sort of gown that is absolutely and positively sure to be becoming to members of the feminine world, it is the white sports frock. Some of the meekest and properest of jackets for sports wear, when taken off, reveal a "sun-tan" back that might seem a bit extreme even to a grand opera singer about to give a concert. It was surely no such back as that which the modest as well as pretty bride with whom Dame Fashion spoke had chosen. She was even going to take off a bit of the "bride" look, for travel, by wearing a navy blue hat and other navy-shaded accessories.

SOCIAL SNOBBERY

COMEDY AT ELVERHOJ

The Elverhoj Theatre at Milton-on-Hudson turns to one of the funniest comedies in recent years in its production of "Tweedles" this week.
This comedy of social snobbery as it is practiced summer times along the sea coast of Maine makes rich material in the hands of Booth Tarkington and Harry Leon Wilson. The Elverhoj company will feature resident players in several roles, among them Ben Starkie, who had the lead in "Young Woodley."

For the following week the company will do "Pomeroy's Past," Clare Kummer's farce, rehearsals for which will start shortly.

Kerhonkson Road Progress.

Pouring concrete is nearly completed on the new construction between Kerhonkson and Wawarsing.
A small strip at Kerhonkson will be finished today. The piece over the "Slide" remains unfinished and the impression was given that there was no certainty just how this vexatious stretch of sliding clay would be handled. The road was open double width this morning from the Wa-warsing end to below the Geary farm east of the village. One-way traffic on concrete is maintained the rest of the way.

A better films league has been organized in New England.

Dame Fashion Smiles

By Grace Jewett Austin

Dame Fashion lately attended a large patriotic luncheon of women, old, middle-aged and young, and she thought that if she had a dollar for each one whom she saw wearing an ensemble she would have quite a plump pocketbook. Furthermore, she decided that to take a feminine wearer, give her a silk crepe ensemble, where the coat has long lines and the fit of the shoulders is perfect; let her match it with hose, pumps, gloves and purse; let her choose a hat with tones partly to match and partly to harmonize—and just as she stands in that garb she is exactly right for the majority of the occasions that might arise, whether she is in New York, Chicago, on the Pacific sea coast, or at Paris, London or Constantinople. In short, it is a universal and multi-useful dictate of fashion.

One amusing bit of luncheon conversation ought to be quoted, for a friend was telling of her fondness for brightly colored and figured pajamas. A guest was kept for an unexpected night's visit, and a pair of these pajamas was offered for her use. At first she half refused them, declaring they would keep her awake! But she finally accepted and had no sad tales of broken rest. The sequel was that she was met a week later and somewhat sheepishly confessed that she had been made a convert and was now out buying gay pajamas for her very own!

At this same patriotic occasion Dame Fashion listened to a glowing address concerning many of the early patriots, and among other details, learned that President George Washington had such large and powerful wrists that special gloves had always to be made to order for him. And Dame Fashion wondered whether in his youth this was an anxiety and a cause for bashfulness to him, just as with so many young people, when some measurement is not just of the standard size. But with maturity comes content whether with the large head-size (for which, it might be remarked, the milliners are growing kinder, as long locks increase) or the large feet, which while perhaps not so graceful in pumps for the dance, are yet an excellent foundation for life's many forced marches.

To this same patriotic luncheon Dame Fashion had courage to wear her green shoes, and great was the comfort she took with them. Early in the season she asked her favorite shoe man if such a thing as a bargain in green shoes could not be found. Knowing the special last she likes, he shook his head and began to talk of an "order" for them, and "teen" dollars, so her word was "no, no, no." Then he suggested that she take a pair of last season's "champagne" shoes, now impossible to bring back to their fawny softness of hue, and try "lettuce green" enamel, of the best quality. Narrow satin ribbon of the same hue was bought for ties, and yet Dame Fashion waited a whole month for courage to wear them. But they were so comfortable—having been tested and tried the summer before—and with green touches in hat, bag and costume jewelry, she found they really gained quite a success—and all for 45 cents!

Crepe de Chine Scarf, Vestee Add Smartness

Here is an attractive frock for the vacationist. It is of blue rayon and wool and depends upon its lines and touch of chateaux in the crepe de chine scarf and vestee for its smartness.

Greatest Railroad System

The German Railways company Deutsche Reichsbahn, organized by the Dawes commission, is the largest railroad system in the world. It comprises 80,000 miles of track and employs more than 700,000 men.

Tweed, Alpaca for Boat, Train Wear

Wide Choice May Be Had in Milady's Apparel for Vacation Days.

Those unfortunate women who must travel by train will find the difficulty of looking smart on route greatly complicated by sundries of sock and need to wearing to avoid light colors and crumpled fabrics, says a fashion correspondent in the New York World. Ladies who travel by the more elegant means of airplane, motor or boat have a far wider range of choice for their wardrobe.

The heavy tweed suit with its seven-eighths or three-quarter-length coat is an excellent choice for those pedestrian voyagers who count their laps around the promenade deck and scorn the glass enclosure. One smart costume designed for them is of a heavy tweed in beige, black and green in a zigzag pattern. The plain wrap-around skirt is worn outside a blouse of white flat crepe, which fastens with businesslike buttons covered in woven leather of several colors.

A woven leather belt accents the high waistline. Over this suit is worn a three-quarter lined coat of the tweed with the conventional patch pockets, throw-back scarf collar and a belt in the front only.

One item which forms a necessary part of the wardrobe of any woman who travels either by motor or ship is the full-length coat of tweed or homespun, which may be thrown over the lighter sports ensemble beneath. For shipboard, such coats are provided with long luxurious fur collars that extend to the hem; for motoring, the collars are usually shorter. The trimming on these coats is reduced to the minimum and consists, besides the collar, of a little stitching, strategically applied to reduce the bulky appearance of the figure. Lynx, wolf, raccoon and such inexpensive furs are usually used.

The woman traveling by train will find that a smart little black chiffon becomes a limp rag after two hours of crossing the plains and that a zephyr-weight jersey feels like the perfect costume in which to brave the Arctic circle.

The one fabric which seems ideal for train travel is alpaca, which is cool, does not crush and has a chic thoroughly adaptable to this season's vagaries. A cardigan and skirt of black or navy alpaca, worn with the most gossamer of sweater blouses, makes a costume in which the traveler may emerge smiling at her station.

New Pink Shades Are in Dainty Lingerie Silk

Cherub pink is a lovely new color for lingerie silks, with the delicate effect of cream over peaches and exceptionally charming when contrasted with handsome lace that is tinted a medium ecru. Lingerie sets for the bride's trousseau are shown in this color, of firm silk crepe. Chemise, night robe and slip are cut to mold the figure and are given fullness by means of the cluster plaits, unstitched in the French manner. Or, in lieu of chemise there are pantie and bandeau garments. Foundations in the same color but of heavier silk accompany these sets.

Beads Strung Hit or Miss Is Paris Fashion

Mixed coral and jade, or their imitation, are among the recent Paris neck-lace fads. It is considered more chic to string beads big or small than to put first a pink and then a green.

Women are picking up stray beads in antique and Oriental shops with a view to stringing their necklaces according to their own ideas. Odd sizes as well as mixed colors are in vogue.

Clouted amber and clear amber are in demand to combine for choker strings. Ivory beads and amber are another combination in use.

Silver Guitar

A guitar made of German silver is said to possess great volume, which makes it suitable for orchestral use, while retaining the sweet tone produced by the wooden guitar. One great advantage of the silver instrument is that it does not warp.

ELEANOR GUNN ON FASHIONS

Corsets and Longer Skirts are Threatened For Fall

New York—Fashion has a telegraphic code all its own. By its darts, but more especially its dots, one knows at once how smart the fabric is, and how well informed the wearer. Dots of all sizes, and in several arrangements have been good throughout the season and give every promise of being continued on velvet and on heavier silks and some woollens.

The universal use of prints against a dark ground gives rise to all sorts of speculation as to the continued favor of printed fabrics for the new season. So many revolutionary ideas are promised that a few familiar things will be more than appreciated; and for this as well as other reasons the dotted fabric is being banked on.

Beige Lightweight Woolen Embroidered in Brown Dots Appears in a Youthful Frock With Beige Silk Crepe Gilet and Collar. The Collar May Be Worn High or With the Scarf Ends Fying and the Skirt Introduces Pleats Just Across the Front. Stanting Pockets Are Other Details of Interest.

(Copyright, 1929, by Fairchild.)

The period of expectancy and conjecture as to what Paris has up her sleeve for fall is about over since the openings are upon us. Sleeves have been so negligible that one might infer that not much could be hidden in them, yet a whole bag of new tricks is promised when the collections are shown.

Patou who is credited with the biggest success of them all this summer, is rumored to be experimenting with corseted mannikins so that the molded silhouette may be developed along corseted lines. This in itself is enough to set the smart world agog if not aghast. Longer skirts for day wear have also been threatened, gossip having it that Jean Charles Worth is the high priest of this new cult.

OUR DAILY PATTERN.

A Dainty Frock for a Tiny Tot.

6478.—Printed dimity was chosen in this instance, in a pattern of white and blue, with blue bias binding at the free edges. One could use voile, chiffon or taffeta. Zephyr is also suggested. The long waist portions are finished with short kimono sleeves. A gathered flounce completes the length of the dress, and forms a soft cascade over the left side of the front.

The pattern for this pleasing model is cut in 4 sizes: 2, 4, 6 and 8 years. To make the dress for a 6 year size will require 2 yards of material 32 inches wide or wider. To trim neck, sleeves and flounce with bias folds will require 3 1/2 yards 1 1/2 inch wide, cut on a true bias.

A pattern of this illustration mailed to any address on receipt of 12c in coin or stamps by the Pattern Department, The Freeman, Kingston, N. Y. Be sure to state the size wanted.

Farther Refuge

Old Doctor Johnson said patriotism was the last refuge of scoundrels. But in case that fails nowadays there is still a writ of error, or certiorari, or whatever it is.—Detroit News.

SHE THOUGHT:
"You look stunning—too bad you're so careless about 'B.O.'"
Yet, to be polite, SHE SAID:
"I love your new dress, Laura."

So attractive-looking... yet unpopular! Can it be "B.O."?
(Body Odor)

SLIM! Stylish! Chic! Laura was stunning in her lovely, new frock. But what did it avail her? Men admired Laura's smartness—but they avoided her company. Women openly envied her beauty, but secretly pitied her.

Yes—another case of "B.O."—Body Odor! And Laura never suspected it until a newspaper ad aroused her suspicions. "B.O." isn't hurting Laura any longer. She keeps perspiration odorless now—easily, too!

Now—no fear of "B.O." even in hot weather

We can't always tell when we're guilty of "B.O." We become insensitive to ever-present odors. But pores give off as much as a quart of odor-causing waste daily. And the hotter the weather—the more danger.

It's best to play safe—always! Just bathe regularly with Lifebuoy, the deodorizing toilet soap that millions use. Refreshing, invigorating, marvelously cleansing, its gentle antiseptic lather is like a tonic. Pores are purified so deeply that "B.O." stays away.

Try Lifebuoy for a healthier complexion, too. Enjoy its germ-removing benefits. You'll love its pleasant, extra-clean scent that tells you it purifies—yet quickly vanishes as you rinse. Adopt Lifebuoy today.

VEEDOL MOTOR OIL

DESIGNED by a German, made in Germany, built with German money, with German metal, fabric, motors...Yet the Graf Zeppelin flies on all her cruises with an American motor oil—The New VEEDOL.

Why?... Because the same engineering genius that designed and built the Graf Zeppelin also dictated the choice of its motor oil. And out of all the motor oils in the world, they chose VEEDOL.

VEEDOL made a perfect record on the first voyage of the Graf Zeppelin to the United States—the longest, hardest battle in the history of aviation.

Since that conclusive proof of its quality, no other motor oil has ever been considered.

On the cruise just ended, VEEDOL gave its usual flawless performance in lubricating the Zeppelin's 5 powerful Maybach motors. So VEEDOL now has 4 Atlantic crossings to its credit, 3 trips by the Graf Zeppelin and 1 by the Pathfinder, recently flown from Old Orchard, Maine, to Roue by Lieut. Roger Q. Williams and Capt. Lewis V. Yancy.

When the Graf Zeppelin sails on her trip around the world, VEEDOL will again be used.

Do you realize that you can stop at any orange and black VEEDOL sign and get VEEDOL of the same proven quality used

Mother's Cook Book

Summer set lip to earth's bosom bare, And let the flushed print in a poppy there; Like a yawn of fire from the grass it came, And the fanning wind puffed it to rapping flame. —Francis Thompson.

SOME SUMMER SALADS

THE good old summer time should be the time when mother can enjoy a vacation as well as the rest of the family. Meals should be simple, table service made easy to care for, and every member allotted some tasks to lighten the work of caring for the home.

Planning the meals days ahead will help much, as then leftovers may be used and meals made attractive.

Onion Salad.

This will be a good one to serve when having the meal out of doors. Chop a large mild onion or two with a tablespoonful of parsley. Add french dressing made as follows and serve on crisp lettuce: Take one cupful of oil, one teaspoonful of salt, one-half teaspoonful of paprika, one-third cupful of lemon juice, two tablespoonfuls of sugar and one-half a can of tomato soup. Beat well and keep in a mason jar in the ice chest. This dressing is good as long as it lasts, which is a short time, for it is good.

Cauliflower Salad.

Separate cold, cooked cauliflower into flowerets. Shred bacon and fry until crisp, mix with a little cider vinegar, salt if needed, and cayenne and pour hot on the cauliflower which has been sprinkled with a little minced tender green onion.

Tomato and Chive Salad.

Cut small peeled tomatoes in half and place on lettuce; have all well chilled. Sprinkle with minced chives and place a spoonful of thick mayonnaise on top of each. Sprinkle the vegetables with a bit of salt and cayenne.

Grapefruit and Celery Salad.

Arrange nests of lettuce and heap on sections of grapefruit which have been carefully broken and membrane removed. Sprinkle with a few shredded almonds and half the quantity of celery. Top with plenty of rich mayonnaise and serve well chilled at once.

Egg and Celery Salad.

Cut two heads of celery and add two hard-boiled eggs, one-half cupful of walnut meats, all well blended. Season well with salt and a dash of cayenne and serve with mayonnaise, on lettuce.

Potato and Smoked Herring Salad.

Skin and bone herring and take the fish, add as much hard-boiled egg as fish and twice as much cold boiled potato. Season with minced onion, salt if needed and cover with french dressing.

How It Started

By JEAN NEWTON

"HUMOR"

IN THE common use of the word to express a state of mind, as bad or good humor, we find an interesting story of a bygone medical theory, which has been outlived by its terminology.

At the time when the barber was the surgeon, the medical profession had a theory that man, mentally and physically, was controlled by four physical factors, four humors in the body, certain combinations of which gave specific humors or tempers to one's health and disposition. Physicians' bulletins of that time would, perhaps, make interesting reading. They might run something like this:

X Y Z R

This is a good illustration of the wealth of history embodied in language, not scientific, etymological language, but the words here and there which belonged to some custom, or theory, or thing.

FOR THE COOSE—

MOST of the pickin' in the world is done by people that don't understand.

You never start ponderin' on the nothingness of everything while a new love affair is on the up curve.

You can't be a wife and an artist at the same time, although you can be married and have a career.

All the offensive tactics of a man ain't half so demoralizin' for a woman as the confidences of another woman.

FOR THE GANDER—

The woman with a strong personality don't have to be afraid of criticism; but she's gotta be prepared for it.

When you love it makes two people richer but when you hate it on'y makes one poorer.

As two people get deeper in love, the man gets less afraid of losin' the woman and the woman gets more afraid of losin' the man.

Human Eye a Rover

The human eye roves to and fro with an involuntary rhythm of its own, like the heart, according to a distinguished Russian scientist, Serge Yourievitch, whose researches have just been presented to the Academy of Sciences in Paris. This rhythm, he says, averages about 100 movements to the minute.

In a familiar, quiet room, where nothing moves, the normal person's eyes remain at rest for a second or two, after which they begin their customary movements, sometimes from one side to the other, says Popular Science Monthly. Evolutionists assume that these involuntary roving motions of the eye are an inheritance from modern man's ancestors, who lived in circumstances requiring constant watchfulness.

LOSS OF VEEDOL TO OIL THE GREAT ZEPPELIN

Official information was received from Dr. Hugo Eckener, commander of the Graf Zeppelin, that the zeppelin's arrival at Lakehurst, N. J., after its first journey across the Atlantic, had been completed in the most important phase of its history.

The Graf Zeppelin, the first of the new class of rigid airships, was launched from Lakehurst, N. J., on July 8, 1931, and after a journey of 36 hours, 59 minutes, and 23 seconds, landed at Lakehurst, N. J., on July 11, 1931.

Market for Fruits And Vegetables

New York, Aug. 5. (AP)—The market for fruits and vegetables was steady today. Receipts were rather heavy but the demand was fairly good, especially for attractive offerings. Wholesale business was concentrated chiefly at 75 cents to $1 per crate. Some specialties by some strictly fancy lots realized $1.12 to $1.25. Some inferior worked out around 75 cents. Potatoes brought 40 cents to 45 per crate.

During the preceding month New York state shipped 1,400 carloads of lettuce, of which 1,000 were received in this city.

Cauliflower was in extremely short supply. The consignments from the Catskill mountain area were unattractive and peddled out at $2.50 a $5 per crate. Washington cauliflower sold at $6 per crate. The market was entirely in the hands of the buyers.

Prices on cucumbers and pickles, particularly fancy stock, moved upward in a firmer market. Supplies were rather light and the demand was more active. New York upstate cucumbers jobbed out as high as $2.75 per bushel basket. Pickles reached $3.

The market was a trifle firmer on state celery. Supplies were moderate and the demand was improved. Bunches of 12 stalks sold from 25 cents to $1. Offerings in the rough packed in two-thirds crates brought $2.25 a $2.75.

Green peas from this state were higher. Arrivals were moderate and fancy met a better demand. Sales on bushel baskets were reported chiefly at $1.50 a $2. Some really fancy commanded $2.25, but inferior sold down to $1. Western peas in crates of 40 and 50 pounds wholesaled at $3 a $5.

Receipts of tomatoes are gradually increasing from the lower Hudson valley. The market ruled weaker with buying exceedingly light. Carriers of the fancy pack of 144 tomatoes peddled out at $2 to $2.50 on the best and $1.25 a $1.75 was obtained for the choice pack of 180 tomatoes.

Offerings of fancy stringbeans met a prompt sale in a slightly firmer market. Wholesale business on bushel baskets of wax beans was transacted at $1 to $3.25. Green round ranged from $1.25 to $2; flat $2 to $3, and champion $2 to $2.50.

Dog, Cat, Groundhogs

Live Happily Together

Lithopolis, Ohio.—The "happiest" family in the animal kingdom, composed of three baby groundhogs, two kittens, a spaniel dog, and a cat, lives at the home here of Frank Rothfuss. The burden of this unique family falls upon the dog and cat. The cat brought in the groundhogs which became so friendly with the kittens that they were adopted.

For guarding the kittens, the dog is rewarded with food gathered by the cat on her foraging trips.

Fire Looms As Greatest Menace To National Forest Since 1919

Battle lines are drawn to save 43,000,000 acres of national forest endangered by fire in three sections. Typical scene in smoldering forest (above). Map shows endangered areas (marked by X) where fires rage. Maj. R. Y. Stuart, chief of the forestry service, directs the fight.

(By L. A. Brophy, Associated Press Feature Editor)

Washington, Aug. 5 (AP).—Scouring through the rain-forest trees of the national forests in the west, fire is threatening apparent destruction unparalleled in years.

Not since 1919, United States forestry officials say, have conditions appeared so grave, and the forest fire season is just starting. The hazard exists in most sections through September.

Approximately 43,000,000 acres early stood in the path of possible destruction. How many more acres will feel the licking rivulets of fire is a question only the hot weeks of a dying summer can answer.

Under the direction of Maj. R. Y. Stuart, chief of the United States forest service, the entire field personnel of the service has mapped out battle lines to meet and, if possible, conquer the common enemy as the smoke clouds roll onward, masking the darting tongues of flame.

Lightning storms, passing over the national forests during the period July 11 to 20 set 239 fires. It wasn't long until a total of 329 fires, largely concentrated, put the protective organizations of the national forests to a severe test.

Fires rage now in three sections and the endangered areas, according to the forest service, are:

Southern California, 19,180,000 acres.

Northern Idaho and western Montana, where two-thirds of an acreage of 22,822,000 is endangered.

Northern Minnesota, the 313,000-acre Superior forest.

A combination of dry weather and severe electrical storms was the match that set off the tinder. Rain rarely follows lightning storms in the western country. A flash sets a tree ablaze and destruction is on its way.

Two hundred men fought a July fire in the Modoc forest in Southern California; 5,000 acres were burned over and 50,000,000 board feet of lumber killed.

In the Superior forest there has been no rain since April. The humus in the trees is reported as powder dry. The underbrush crackles under foot. Smoke clouds roll up and obscure the vision of fire watchers.

Approximately 160,000,000 acres constitute the 151 national forests that stud the landscape as the prairies are passed to the west and northwest.

The Superior forest, lying between Minnesota and Wisconsin, along the Canadian border, is relatively small.

The great area of forests in northern Idaho and western Montana is divided into high and low fire hazard possibilities by the continental divide. It sets approximately a third of the area in the low hazard class.

Twenty national forests are included in the Southern California district. Huge areas include the Lassen, Santa Barbara, and the Klamath, in addition to the Modoc.

Tagging Major League Eases

(By William C. Cullen, Associated Press Staff Writer.)

The tagging of Major League baseball players was eased today by the fact that the American League and National League have agreed to a new set of rules governing the tagging of players. The new rules, which will be in effect from September 1 to the end of the season, provide that a player may be tagged at any time, but that the tag must be made by a player who is in a position to make a play. This means that a player who is running to first base may be tagged by a player who is in a position to make a play, but that a player who is running to second base may not be tagged by a player who is in a position to make a play. The new rules also provide that a player who is running to third base may be tagged by a player who is in a position to make a play, but that a player who is running to home plate may not be tagged by a player who is in a position to make a play.

This new set of rules is the result of a long and hard-fought battle between the American League and National League. The American League had been insisting that a player could be tagged at any time, while the National League had been insisting that a player could only be tagged if he was in a position to make a play. The two leagues finally agreed to a compromise, which provides that a player may be tagged at any time, but that the tag must be made by a player who is in a position to make a play.

Some 35,000 of the faithful turned out on the Sabbath to see the Yankees lead off their current campaign, the Cleveland Indians. The champions hit hard behind old Tom Zachary in the opener to win by 12 to 6, but a general pitching blow-out in the second clash saw the Indians win by 14 to 6. Young Wes Ferrell was knocked from the box, but so were Herb Pennock and other Yankees. The Indians got nine in the ninth to pull out the decision.

Ed Morris held the recurrent White Sox to two small hits to win by 8 to 0. The Red Sox had a fine hitting afternoon with seventeen safe drives. The Detroit Tigers closed out the American League program by winning a rough double-header from the Senators at Washington. The opening score was 15 to 5 and the second 13 to 11 in seven innings. The nightcap was marked by an eight-run Bengal rally which turned a deficit into an advantage.

The mad dash of the Cubs continued yesterday when Uncle Wilbert Robinson dared to expose a left-hander, William Watson Clark, to the fire of the Robins. Clark did very well against the heavy guns of the Chicago array, but succumbed by 6 to 4 when Charlie Grimm, the only left-handed swinger on the McCarthy club, connected for a single with men on second and third in the seventh.

Riggs Stephenson contributed a home run to the Chicago attack, while Kiki Cuyler came through with two singles and a double. Sheriff Fred Blake attended to the sniping for Moss McCarthy, and although the Robins swung at him persistently he rose to meet each emergency, some 40,000 happy Chicagoans saw the battle.

Pitching his side arm ball from whatever background of white shirts a small Sunday crowd at St. Louis provided Sylvester Johnson blanked the Boston Braves by a score of 5 to 0. Art Delaney was something of a problem for the home boys, but permitted the Cards to bunch their few blows. Ernest Orsatti struck the home run zone.

Jackie May subjugated the hard swinging Phillies to win by 7 to 1 at Cincinnati in the remaining National League contest. The Phils mustered only five safe blows against Johnson while the Reds were bombing Willoughby and Collins for eleven.

The Pan-Am baseball team of this city led by Walt Black, their left-handed hurling ace, took the Jewish Center team of Poughkeepsie into camp Sunday at the Saugerties road diamond by an 8-2 score. Eight scattered hits were allowed by Black. Cohen was touched for 10 bingles by the Pan-Am outfit.

Howley Not to Manage Browns Again in 1930

The Globe-Democrat says that Dan Howley, manager of the St. Louis Browns, in third place in the American league pennant chase, will not be back next year. The paper says a squabble between Howley and L. C. McEvoy, vice president of the club, is responsible.

According to Howley, the newspaper says, McEvoy has been giving orders as to what players should be used, and Howley claims Phil Bell, president of the club, is the only one to give orders, and that it was no understatement when he signed a three-year contract, which began with the 1927 season.

Bell is said by the paper to take the blame and that McEvoy in ordering player shifts, was merely acting for him.

Icebergs Miss Long
Icebergs sent so that almost all times their visible bulk is submerged. In Buffalo Bay St. John River saw icebergs aground in 1,000 feet of water. Antarctic icebergs, though rarely over 200 feet in height, are often vast plateaus, table-topped, that have been known to reach 30 miles in length.

Babe Ruth, the famous lady baseball player, receives an annual salary equal to $500,000. She also has an additional income from other sources. Besides this she receives a vacation lasting a quarter of the year.—German news paper.

Diamond Notes

The Buffalo club asked for waivers on 14 ball players in a single day.

Bullet Joe Bush plotted a four-hit game in his debut with the Newark Bears.

James (Zack) Taylor, veteran catcher of the Boston Braves, was acquired by the Cubs on waivers.

Tommy Conolly, dean of American league umpires, has been calling balls and strikes for 33 years.

Albert Sachs, outfielder, has been named captain of the 1930 Michigan State college baseball team.

Sam Daffey, pitcher for the Des Moines Western league club, has been sold to the Philadelphia Nationals.

George ("Shorty") Rosen, catcher, was elected captain of Northwestern university's baseball team for 1930.

Radbourne, one of the greatest pitchers of all time, received a salary of $4,500 when at the height of his career.

Eddie Woebler, outfielder with Bloomington, was sold to the Dubuque (Iowa) Mississippi Valley league club.

Ed Baecht, pitcher, formerly with the Philadelphia Nationals, has been signed by the Los Angeles club of the Pacific Coast league.

Middle age is that time in life when the subject suddenly realizes he knows more about the Red Sox lineup for 1904 than he does about the Athletics' personnel for 1929.

One of the longest home runs ever hit by Babe Ruth was in the ball park of his home town, Baltimore. Dale Alexander, now with the Tigers, hit one that some fans thought was even longer.

George Muehlebach, owner of the Kansas City Blues of the American association, announces the purchase of infielder Harry Ricouda from the Pittsburgh club of the National league.

Manager Frank Snyder of the Houston (Texas league) club, a St. Louis Cardinal farm, has been given his unconditional release at his own request and the veteran outfielder, Gene Bailey, named manager.

Jimmy Walkup, Fort Worth pitcher, is refuting the theory that a southpaw is shy on control. In 15 complete games this season, the former Detroit slapper issued only 18 passes. He finished every one of the games.

Indianapolis, minor league champion last year, hasn't much hitting power in the 1929 race. Spring, new catcher, and Barnhart, veteran outfielder, are just a little over the .300 mark. And they're the sluggers.

Large-Fisted Boxer Is Given Big Advantage

In the matter of mitts, Berlin boxing experts have struck a snag. At the last bout between the German heavyweight, Ernst Rosenwahn, and the Italian giant, Primo Carnera, for whom gloves of a special size had to be made, it became apparent that the big Italian's opponent was greatly handicapped.

For the larger gloves of Carnera, weighing five ounces, according to the regulations, naturally had less padding than those of the other man, whereby the Italian's blows were made more telling than those of the smaller man with his fists encased in thicker padding.

Rondouts Nose Out Hercules

The Kingston Fair Grounds was the scene of a tough struggle Sunday afternoon when the Rondout A. C. took over the Hercules A. C. by a score of 2 to 1. The Powder Company team brought a run across the plate in the fourth but this was nullified by the Hercules. The Hercules won in the eighth and ninth.

Peters' slams and curves were very effective. The Hercules team hit safely but three times. The Rondout twirler had five walks chalked up against him. The Rondouts went scoreless up until the eighth inning, and all this time Best had allowed out four hits. The three hits that followed carried the winning punch. One was batted out in the eighth and two in the ninth. Best walked two men in the entire contest, but one in the eighth was the cause of a run crossing the plate.

AUGUST

the Sardonx

Augustus, great and good emperor of Rome, has had this month, which brings good fortune to all, named for him. Its birth-stone, the sardonx, is an omen of true wedded love.

Fittingly enough, the rings for those born in this month are named for the first pair of true lovers, Adam and Eve.

Cordially yours,
